Newsletter MARCH 2019

pph 324/10/2012 (031059) - 110/19

According to the details shown from Department of Statistics in Malaysia, the average GDP (Gross Domestic Product) per capita in year 2017 was RM42, 228.00; while in Sabah its GDP reached to only RM23, 979.00, whereas the neighboring state Sarawak has reached as high as RM49,327.00. The gap between these two statistics is really surprising.

There are several causes to this gap, I believe readers should have a clearer insight as to why this is happening in comparison to me who is a Taiwanese. Not only GDP, including price levels, industrial structure, demographic composition, government autonomy and etc., there are also big differences between Sabah and Sarawak.

Sabah has always been in the spotlight within the Tourism Industry. When looking at the visitor's arrival to Sabah in year 2017 there was approximately 3,427,908 visitors (66% domestic: 34% abroad) while visitors' arrival to Sarawak in the same year was around 4,856,888 (46% domestic, 54% abroad). However, the figures show that Sabah is still falling behind Sarawak.

As a person who will be working long-term in Sabah, other than letting numbers speak for itself, I sincerely hope that in the future Sabah will strive to be better.
